That's when I was hit and dragged by a pickup truck while riding a Big Wheel trike at a friend's party. Emergency brain surgery saved my life, but I lost a portion of the back part of my brain. At the age of ten, I had to learn how to breathe, swallow, talk, eat, stand, sit, walk-everything- all over again. Traumatic brain injury is one of the leading causes of disability among children, yet, because of the complexity of the brain, experts still have much to learn about how to treat TBI. In When the Lights Go Out, I describe my therapies-what's worked, what hasn't, and why-and share how I learned to cope with the emotional and psychological challenges. In the process, I have discovered the critical roles that faith in God, love of family, the healing power of friends, and the inherent goodness of people all played in my ability to triumph over overwhelming odds. I have also learned that a horrific accident has given me an amazing gift. When the Lights Go Out is an expression of that gift. Crammed into a place much smaller than they are used to, they begin to get to know each other again, but as the summer progresses they're more aware than ever that they're battling a ticking clock. And as Taylor tries to deal with the drama at home, she is faced with the fact that the friends she thought she'd left behind haven't actually gone anywhere. Her former summer best friend is still living across the lake and still as mad with Taylor as she was five years ago, and her first boyfriend has moved in next door... but he's much cuter at seventeen than he was at twelve. Can one summer be enough time to get a second chance - with family, friends, and love? I had one scorching night with my ex-boyfriend's bestie... Oops. Ten years later, I'm back in our hometown. Nothing changes here... not even Callan Duran. My ex is long gone, but his best friend is still here. Still the arrogant prick he always was. And still hot AF. Massive ego and even bigger... wallet. He's back to picking fights with me again like the old days. There's a strange comfort in the familiar tension. I can't deny the heat when our arms accidentally touch. And the safety I felt all those years ago in his strong protective arms. When our eyes meet again, I finally feel at home. STOP. I don't want to be burnt again. He's trouble with a capital "T" and I know it. But I'm certainly no angel either... I've been keeping a secret for the past 10 years that will change his life forever. My ten-year-old son has Callan's clear blue eyes. The lies are about to be exposed. But our potential love needs a second chance. And my son deserves the daddy he's never known.
